PIONEER WASHER.
E. G. BOLTER,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public It is unrivalled for its simplicity durability and the rapidity and ease of its action Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting with proper care, for ten years The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes.

It having a tight cover the steam thus assists materially in cleansing the clothes, and also avoids the inhaling of steam from hot suds

This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to add housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women

It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it

THE COUNTY RIGHTS, now unsold, will be sold at a bargain if applied for soon.

LETTERS FROM WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.]

OYSTERVILLE, W. T., Sept. 6, 1867.

As the steamer neared the wharf at Astoria, I observed more sensibly than ever before, the difference between inland and seaport towns. In the former, I have encountered hot weather, dust and sultry atmosphere, exhaling an abundance of ague There I saw wagons, coaches, buggies and vehicles of all kinds, drawn by all sorts of teams At Astoria we met the pure sea air, cool, healthy and exhilarating.

First, we passed the Revenue Cutter, at anchor, with the Stars and Stripes at her mast head, and bristling with the implements of war Then came vessels of all sorts—schooners, sloops, plungers, scows, barges, sail and row boats of all sorts and sizes

Instead the clatter of wagons, the cracking of whips and the "gelang" of teamsters, is heard the dashing of waters, the flapping of sails, the rattle of rigging, the chink of oars and the "heave to" of sailors Each locality has its advantages and disadvantages, and I will not attempt to decide in favor of either, but will say this much Wherever you get the "fever and ague," go to the sea coast and be healed "without money and without price"

I have been asked so often to explain the reason why the Government keeps the

at Astoria, that I will take this opportunity of doing so. The present system of philosophy does not fully and satisfactorily explain all the various and wonderful phenomena of tides Therefore the Government has established these tidal observatories at different points on this and the Atlantic coasts, to aid science in discovering the true course, and philosophy of tides There are three on this coast—one at San Diego, one at San Francisco and one at Astoria The machinery in the tide house is similar to that of a telegraph office A broad paper (long enough to last a month) is drawn through the machine at a regular rate of two or three feet in twenty-four hours. A pencil attached to a float, that rises and falls with the tide, is made to describe the exact height of the tides on the paper as it passes through the machine At the end of the month a new paper is put one, and on the one taken off is the exact height of each tide of the past month The whole thing is very simple, yet ingenious.

I left Astoria for Cape Disappointment, on my way to Olympia, having determined to go the coast and Chehalis river route. At the Cape, Mr. Munson, the Lighthouse Keeper, showed me through the Lighthouse (always an object of interest and beauty) I found it in the most perfect order. Everything about it is kept as bright and clean as the neatest parlor This monster lamp consumes one gallon and a half of oil every night, and is supplied with oil by a force pump propelled by clock machinery. The light is magnificent, and may be seen thirty or forty miles It stands two hundred and thirty feet above the water. The at this place seems to be in a prosperous condition Everything is neat and in good order The Military Prison for this District is kept here, and there are about twenty one prisoners here now, all kept at labor twelve hours per day. They are employed in grading, making roads.

There are three batteries inside of the Lighthouse, mounting 19 guns, the smallest of which is of 8-inch calibre, but the most of them are 10-inch, and are the best of rifled guns

Besides these, is the great pivot gun, weighing nearly twenty five tons, of 15 inch calibre. It stands on the extreme point of the Cape, two or three rods outside of the Lighthouse. The solid shot thrown by this monster gun, weighs about 450 pounds The powder magazine is built of heavy timber and is covered several feet deep with earth, which is packed very solid and sodded over, so as to be perfectly bomb proof. There are several hundred tons of ammunition here—shot, shell, powder, etc The officers' quarters, hospital, sutler's store, light keeper's house, guardhouse, etc, are all good buildings and form quite a town—all belonging to Uncle Sam is 25 miles north of the Columbia river, and contains the most extensive oyster beds known on the north Pacific coast It is estimated that 40,000 baskets of oysters will be shipped away from here this season From 2,000 to 5,000 baskets are annually sent to Portland, the remainder go to San Francisco This is the principle source of revenue to the country surrounding the bay. The bay lands nearly up to the Columbia river, forming a long narrow peninsula between its western shore and the ocean, upon which are some fine grazing lands, and several beautiful locations for residences facing the great ocean. The several small rivers—North, Cedar, Willapah, Palix, Noma, Nuisel and Bear, empty into the bay on the north east and south east sides. Each of those little valleys contain more or less good bottom land, that of the Willapah, especially is said to be extensive and exceedingly fertile. Shoalwater Bay is a beautiful sheet of water, about twenty five miles in length, and from four to seven miles wide It will always be important on account of its oysters, and the day will come when it will be surrounded by heavy population is on the west side of the bay, about eight miles from its mouth, and is the principle center of the oyster trade It bears many marks of ruin and desolation, caused by the great tide of last winter, when many of the houses were washed away or destroyed The most interesting feature of the place is her fleet of oyster and sail boats Many of them are fine crafts and fast sailers, and there are not many finer sights than to see fifteen or twenty of these boats with snowy sails, gliding over the beautiful bay P W. G.

FEMALE "SNORERS" SNUBBED.—A western railroad conductor tells the following to the Cincinnati Times

"One day last week," said he, "there came on board the cars, from one of the up country stations, a very pretty, genteel young lady, on her way to the city She was alone; so I waited upon her to a good seat, and made her as comfortable as possible It was a few minutes before the starting hour, and she was so agreeable and so talkative that I lingered, and we had a pleasant chat.

"Afterward, when collecting the tickets she detained me again an instant, and gave me some fine peaches, which she said came from her friend's orchard in the country, and really I began to think that I had not had so charming a passenger for many a day

"Well, we arrived at the depot and then I attended her to the carriage, handed her up her carpet bag, and, after all, what do you think she said?"

Now, we thought of course, that the young lady would say very politely, "thank you, sir"—smile like a gleam of sunshine and the carriage roll off—and our friend John Van Dusen, the gentlemanly conductor, would bow adieu, and with a sigh turn away, and forget the matter, and stated that as our natural supposition.

"No," said the conductor, "she did no such thing, but just as her foot was on the step, she turned, and with a sort of look I cannot describe, observed "

"You must consider this, sir, merely a car acquaintance You must not expect to be recognized if we meet anywhere else?"

John drew a long breath

"Why, I thought this rather uncivil, to say the least, so I replied very quickly

"Certainly not, madam I was just about to remark that you must not feel slighted if unnoticed by me anywhere except on the cars, for really we conductors have to be careful about our acquaintance!"

"And the lady?" said we

"She looked quite silly as she drove off," replied John.

Smyth spent two whole days and nights in considering an answer to the conundrum, "Why is an egg underdone like an egg overdone?" He would suffer no one to tell him, and at last hit upon the solution—because both are hardly done.

LETTER FROM SAN FRAN

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESP

SAN FRANCISCO, September

JUB

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, SEPT. 12, 1867.

Matrimonial Prospects of the Negro Race.

It is not easy to see how any one who takes the Democratic view of politics can avoid admitting that the prospects of the negro race for forming advantageous matrimonial alliances are becoming unusually good. Certainly this is the case if it is granted that it would be of any advantage to the negroes to form conjugal alliances with that class of whites who adhere to the Democratic party. For that class tell us and have told us for many years that the recognition of any rights to the negro race would infallibly lead to enforced social equality and compel white people to marry "niggers." The abolition of slavery, it was feared, would produce this direful result. The arming of blacks against the rebels was only putting arms into the hands of "disgusting niggers" to enable them to enforce matrimonial alliances with the fair daughters of the land. The Freedmen's Bureau was another engine by means of which the negroes were to enter, as with a Trojan horse, within the circles of elevated society. Civil Rights were to be feared as a pestilence; for when a negro was endowed with civil rights could he not turn his matrimonial aspirations anywhither and compel any alliance he should see fit? Impartial suffrage was equally to be dreaded, for armed with the ballot the negro had only to vote himself such a wife as he chose, and there was nothing for it on her part but submission. Such has been the general course of Democratic reasoning on this engrossing and embarrassing question.

Taking their views of the subject we should therefore say that the prospects of the negro stand high in the matrimonial market. Occasionally the argument has taken a somewhat different course, and fears have been expressed lest white people, finding legal restraints removed, should neglect attractive persons of their own race and mate only with blacks. This is the true meaning and interpretation of the word "mongrelize," which so often finds a place in Democratic literature. The idea of a "Mongrel Republic," which is so often broached, pre-supposes a preference among whites for conjugal alliances with negroes and betrays a fear that this preference will be followed, or it means nothing at all.

Disgusting as this is in conception and contemptible as it is as an argument for withholding rights from black men, it is actually the most potent, as it is generally the only argument employed by those who do the thinking and talking for a large portion of the Democratic party. They talk about "negro equality" being possible, just as if there were anything like equality, in a social point of view, among different classes of whites; just as if anything like "equality" in the sense in which they use the term, ever existed or ever could exist in the world. And they talk about the country becoming "mongrelized," just as if our people were like those women of the Indian race who were met by Lewis and Clark on their Pacific expedition, and who took a very great fancy to the black negro man who accompanied the explorers, making him their preferred favorite above all others. It would be insulting to common intelligence to propose such stuff as many of their journals constantly teem with as argument worthy of serious consideration.

A NEW VERSION.—The Herald man is out with another article, nearly a column in length, endeavoring to establish the important fact that he positively does know "Major Dent, Gen. Grant's brother-in-law, and an avowed secessionist." This time he has enlarged the story, and claims also to be intimately acquainted with "four sons of Major Dent," all of whom are of the same political faith with their father. The cause of this new and important revelation is a letter we published a couple of days ago, reviewing the Herald man's former statements about "Gen. Grant and his brother-in-law." For our own part we neither affirm nor deny that the Dents are secessionists. We have never had much anxiety on that subject, as we do not recognize it as a question on which the fate of the country depends. The fact,—if it be a fact,—that they ever gave countenance to the views of the Herald would seem, however, to strongly indicate that they are secessionists, as that individual would not be likely to seek any other sort of company. So we concede that Major Dent was either a secessionist, as the person who was once "in Washington" affirms, or that he had about lost his faculties, as our correspondent asserts, either of which suppositions would sufficiently account for his falling into, or tolerating, the company of the editor referred to. But the value of all the important revelations which that lad ritual is making in regard to the Dents, consists chiefly in the light which these facts throw on General Grant's political opinions. Grant is not a "Radical," because his father-in-law "holds on" that he (Grant) "did not approve" of the Emancipation Proclamation," and because "Major Dent's four sons, with whom we are personally acquainted, do not regard their distinguished brother-in-law having any sympathy with the Radicals." This, stated on such editorial authority, certainly ought to be conclusive. But we have the same valuable authority on the opposite side of the question. Only a fortnight ago the same editor was denouncing and vilifying Grant for favoring the "Radical" policy, calling him a "traitor" more infamous than Arnold, and declaring that in comparison with him, Jeff Davis is a patriot. Taking this oracle for it, Grant's position does not seem quite clear. But however uncertain this may be, it is edifying to observe that the individual who was once "in Washington" deems it necessary to a defense and vindication of his character to assert almost daily that he does know Major Dent, the father-in-law of General Grant, and also four of his sons, relatives of their "distinguished brother-in-law." And we trust that no one will ever "vilify" that person by expressing a doubt of about his acquaintance with the Dents. It would be impossible to touch him on a sorer place.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The Democratic vote of San Francisco at the late election averages about 2,000 more than in 1864. The candidate for Governor receives 10,461 votes. The Democratic vote in 1864 was 8,362. The vote thrown for Haight is therefore 2,109 larger than that thrown by by the party in the last election. Of this vote, at least 1,000 would come by the natural increase of the strength of the party by accessions to the voting population, and the remaining 1,109 is probably made up mostly from those who had hitherto voted the Union ticket. The greater portion of the changes was among the German population, most of whom, as a German paper of the city asserts, "voted the Democratic ticket because they were firmly convinced that this was the only way to destroy the Sunday law." The Democratic gains therefore do not proceed at all from any change of views among the people on questions of national politics. And it will be seen by the figures above given that their gains are not so large as they have been boasting them. The trouble in San Francisco was that over 5,000 Union men, as the register shows, did not attend the polls; and a similar discontent prevailed all over the State. It is evident that this is what beat the party, and that changes of sentiment regarding national politics had little or nothing to do with it.

The San Francisco papers of the 7th are of the opinion that Bigby, Republican, is elected to Congress in the 2d California District, the returns as far as then received showing a majority for him of 1,717.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO SEPTEMBER 10.

Washington News.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The Times says the pressure is strong for the removal of Seward from the Cabinet.

Steadman assures the President that he is not a candidate for the War Office, and urges him not to remove McCulloch. The President [illegible] and Granger that no change will be made [illegible] of the Freedmen's Bureau at present, but that time [illegible] should have the place when it is made.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has received a dispatch from the Superintendent of Indian Affairs at Omaha to-day, stating that a messenger had arrived from Spotted Tail's camp with news that the Sioux and Cheyennes want to make peace.

Fenian Doings.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—The Herald this evening contains an extended account of the doings of the Fenian Congress just closed, though there was a strict oath of secrecy. The building was guarded by soldiers and the proceedings were stormy throughout. Near the breaking up there was a row. A secret message of President Roberts was read. At Paris he had found great discouragement but had succeeded in visiting all the factions. The Acting Secretary of War reports the whole force of the Fenian brigade at 9,200 enlisted men; 15,000 rifles, 10,500 accoutrements and 120,000 rounds of ammunition. In addition there were 1,000 rifles on the border from St. Albans to Oswego in the hands of private parties, at Sackett's Harbor 2,000 stands of arms, at Platt's Point, 12,000 at Oswego, in all 20,000 rifles. In addition the Stephens wing claimed 15,000 stand of arms, 15,000 sabres, a large lot of ammunition, a vessel at New York and ten batteries of field artillery, three for cavalry, and two light batteries to go with the cavalry to be organized. The soldiers are to be sober men. Drunkenness is punished by dismissal from the army. The Stephens and Roberts wings are formally united under the name of the Irish Republic. Roberts is elected President. He has declined unless the Congress would raise half a million dollars for his use, and if that amount is pledged, Roberts accepts. The circles are called on for all the funds on hand to be sent to headquarters, and that they waste none for flags or trappings. Bonds of the Irish Republic are reported to realize only twenty cents on the dollar. A resolution of respect to the late Gen. Meagher was carried amid cheers and kisses. A committee was appointed to draft an address to the United States Government in behalf of the Fenians, and state that they would support only the party which supports them.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—The sensation to-day was the Hayes-Higgins hand organ procession. Long before the time for starting arrived, Montgomery street was literally thronged with men, women and children. Every window, roof and balcony was appropriated by crowds of people, anxious to witness the proceedings. Promptly at 11 o'clock the procession moved from Jackson street down Montgomery. Mr. Higgins, with his hand organ, was preceded by a carriage in which rode Messrs. Badger and Sweeney. Close behind him was special officer Bloomer, carrying a small sized sack of money on his shoulder. Then came Kidd's Band. A large force of policemen, under Chief Crowley, accompanied them. The excitement knew no bounds, and in the din and uproar of the vast throng closely packed around the performer and surging to and fro, the music of the little piping organ could not be heard more than forty feet. Confidential sums were brought to the collectors, but the principal part was thrown into the street. Half dollars and packages of money came flying from every direction, and as it fell the crowd would pick it from the ground and throw it over to the carriage. Carpets, clothing, books, etc., came tumbling from windows, roofs and balconies on the heads of the crowd beneath. They were placed in the carriage in which the treasurers rode. Fully eight thousand people were on Montgomery street, and the utmost endeavors of a large number of officers were required to make room for Higgins and his party; as it was they were only four hours going from Jackson to Market street, including a visit to the Banks on California street. During this time another procession with wagons visited Front and Battery streets and collected a large quantity of merchandise of every description, tobacco and whisky not excepted. At this hour the result has not been announced, but the cash receipts approximated to $5,000.

Supervisor Stanyan, re-elected from the 14th ward, was serenaded at his house last evening and called out to meet a very large number of citizens. One of the speakers explained that the Germans throughout the State were organized to oppose stringent Sabbath legislation, and voted with the Democracy solely to carry out their object in this particular.

ARRIVAL OF JUDGE FIELD.—Stephen J. Field, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, arrived here yesterday, (Wednesday) morning by the steamer Oriflamme. The object of his coming is to hold a term of the United States Circuit Court for the adjudication of cases in error and on appeal. The Court will therefore commence its session to-day. We learn that it is the intention of Judge Field to return by the Oriflamme on her present trip, his duties at San Francisco precluding a longer stay.

On Saturday evening at the Democratic meeting, while Page and some of the other orators were holding forth to the Democracy and denouncing the "Radicals" for allowing any other race than the whites any rights in the country, and intelligent Irishmen present exclaimed: "Come away, boys, it's all nonsense! If he means what he says, why don't he dismiss the Chinaman he is employing to do his work and pay a white girl to do it?" A very pointed interrogatory. It is a well known fact that Democrats employ two thirds of the Chinese labor employed in the city.

THE GENERAL AND THE PRESIDENT.—The Washington dispatch of the 28th ult., to the New York Times, says:

The political situation is much calmer than for several days. In the letter of Grant to the President, last Saturday, he earnestly urged Johnson to modify the order, and even went so far as to state his opinion that persistence on the part of the President in his present course, would bring innumerable evils upon himself and on his administration. He visited the President yesterday morning. The President insisted on the order as it stands. Grant had nothing to do but to obey. Whatever instructions Grant may deem necessary will follow hereafter in separate orders.

A SAD SIGHT.—A woman of respectable appearance came as a passenger on the steamer yesterday morning and registered her name at the Western Hotel, where she remained until the boat started for the Cascades. Going aboard the latter boat her conduct was such as to excite suspicions of her sanity, and she was left at Vancouver and returned to Portland by the Fannie Troup. She stopped at the Western Hotel until this afternoon, and went out upon the street, where by some means she is supposed to have obtained enough liquor to set her entirely crazy. She became somewhat troublesome about the hotel, so that arrangements were being made to send her away, at which she grew violent and going out upon the street fell headlong upon the walk, cutting a severe gash upon her forehead and otherwise injuring herself. She was found lying upon the street in this pitiable plight by the police and taken to the city jail. She was truly an object of commiseration, and while we could not but condemn her conduct, our regret was exalted by the reflection upon the blighted prospects, the crushed possibilities and ruined hopes attendant upon her journey through life to such a sad state.

A MUCH NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.—Many citizens residing in the Southern part of the city are complaining of the neglect they are receiving from those in authority in regard to the crossing of the deep gulch north of the old penitentiary building. This portion of Front street has been impassable for several months, and yet no steps seem to have been taken in the matter of its repair. Those who are under the necessity of passing this place daily, murmur, and with much ground, at the lack of attention which is shown on the part of the city to the wants of a large number of the tax payers whose residences are beyond this ravine, and who are obliged to pay a toll to the Macadamized Road Co. every time they wish to have a sack of flour or a pound of provisions from the city to their homes. There should be a substantial crossing constructed at this place, and relieve the people of the inconvenience and expense they are now under.

FINE INSTRUMENT.—We saw in the music store and picture gallery of W. T. Shanahan on First street, yesterday, a cabinet organ just received per steamer Orizimme which for richness and clearness of tone excels any reed instrument we have seen in the State. It is one of Mason & Hamlin's manufacture, of the largest size, being constructed with a double row of keys, twelve stops for regulating the force and volume of sound, besides a pedal base of two octaves, designed to be worked by the feet of the player. This instrument is certainly of superb finish, and in a church no larger than any in our city, would be equal, if not superior, to a pipe organ.

OPENED IRON WORKS.—This company are displaying commendable energy in the rapidity with which they are pushing forward the erection of suitable buildings upon the grounds of the old penitentiary, lately purchased by them of the State. The company has thoroughly overhauled the old building, and is now erecting quite extensive additions thereto for casting rooms, blacksmith shops and other branches of the foundry business, and they will soon be able to begin operations in their new quarters on a larger scale than before the late disastrous fire.

A SNAG.—Yesterday morning the steamship Orizimme in coming to her berth, before it was fully light, ran foul of the wheel of the Senator and smashed it up rather badly, breaking seven of the paddles and otherwise damaging the wheel. We did not learn that blame was attached to any one for the accident. The Senator was backed up to the P. T. Co.'s wharf, and during the day workmen were employed in making the necessary repairs. The Rescue was dispatched to Oregon City instead of the Senator, at the usual hour.

ALARM OF FIRE.—There was an alarm of fire yesterday forenoon, occasioned by the burning out of a chimney in Arrigoni's Hotel, but before the engine companies—all of which, we believe, were out in double quick time—had arrived at the spot, the flames were extinguished. This is the second alarm from the same quarter within the past week, both of which were unattended by any immediate or great danger.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Oregon, F. S. Shall, commander, left San Francisco yesterday at four P. M., for this port, carrying freight only. We learn that one hundred and fifty tons of freight were lying upon the wharf awaiting shipment when the Orizimme sailed. The great quantity of freight shipped to this destination at this season of the year, requires an extra vessel; hence the coming of the Oregon.

CONTRACTS LET.—The contracts for the improvement of Fourth street, from Harrison to A street, was let on yesterday. That of laying the sidewalks was let to J. S. Boone, and that of regrading the street to E D Hutchinson and Simmons & Son. This improvement will be commenced immediately, upon the drawing and signing of the contracts.

PERSONAL.—Mr. P. K Warren, long and favorably known in this city as an instructor, goes to Albany this morning to take charge of a school in that place We congratulate the citizens of Linn county upon the acquisition of so thorough a gentleman, and able teacher as Professor Warner, and wish him success in his new home.

GLAD TO SEE HIM.—Upon the arrival of the steamer Orizimme we were not a little surprised and pleased to meet our old friend and fellow townsman, Frank Hornung. He is now steward of the favorite steamer, and that is a sure guarantee that the commissariat will be always right

U. S. COURT will meet this morning at ten o'clock, Judge Field presiding. Several cases from this district will come up on appeal, in which the United States is a party, Hon. A. C. Gibbs appearing for the Government.

A VALUABLE ANIMAL.—The famous trotting horse Dexter was recently purchased by Bonner, of the New York Ledger, for $50,000.

COUNTY FINANCES.—The County Assessor submitted his assessment roll to the County Commissioners on last Saturday, and they proceeded to act upon it. The roll returned by the Assessor foots up about $4,660,000 in the aggregate It was approved by the Commissioners and 18 mills on the dollar was levied upon all taxable property returned, as follows For school purposes, 2 mills; for State and military, 6½ mills, for county, 6½ mills; for pauper farm, ½ mills. The tax list named is for the purpose of purchasing a farm whereon are to be placed the poor of the county, such a step being rendered necessary if property continues to be taxed by the support of paupers and the cost of criminal prosecutions The latter bill of expense is regulated by the statutes of the State but the matter of supporting the poor is in the hands of the County Board, and they are taking such steps as in their judgment are best adapted to provide means for their maintenance at the least possible expense to the county. We will give further attention to this subject at a future time

FRESH ARRIVAL OF GOODS.—Barnard Bros have received an immense stock of goods, bought on the most favorable terms, which they can and will sell at lower prices than the same can be purchased at elsewhere, either in Oregon or California Clothing of the best quality will be sold at prices no greater than the value of the trimmings and the cost of making Their facilities for purchasing enable them to offer these surprising bargains To test the truth of these statements an inspection of the stock and prices is all that is needed

MARTIN, THE WIZARD.—This celebrated necromancer, who six years ago gave a successful series of entertainments in this city, arrived by the steamer yesterday and will exhibit in this city as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made

BORN.—On the 10th inst., in this city, the wife of A. Yabitz of a son

BARMAN BROS are determined to carry out their plan, just for the fun of the thing. Go and price their Clothing, just received by the steamer Orizimme. They must need cash Do your Barmans?

TO BUILDERS.—Bids for erecting a School House, 25x40 feet, will be received until Monday, 16th inst. For plans and information apply to W H Bayless, Esq., Architect, corner of Front and Morrison streets

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital $500,000. Paid up capital, $100,000. B. Important Notice to Mechanics.—The Demand in the city of San Francisco for Ship Carpenters, Caulkers and Boiler-Makers, is unusually great at the present moment. Competent mechanics will find immediate employment by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, the Oregon, California and Mexican Steamship Company, the California Steam Navigation Company, and the various Ferry Companies.

All the above mentioned companies are making improvements of such magnitude that able-bodied men need not be idle a single day. The present demand for workmen must continue for years to come, as the amount of work actually now contracted for, and in contemplation, will furnish employment for every mechanic on the Pacific coast

Wages, $5 50 per day, in gold!

Capable men who are now seeking employment in Oregon and the interior towns of California, can obtain regular work here, at the price above given, by asking for it.

Let them come as soon as they choose. They are needed in San Francisco.

The wages of men employed about steamers and ships are always of the highest grade, and men who can do such work have never been known to lack employment.

In all cases where men do overwork, the extra hours are at double pay.

In no place is there so much overwork and nightwork done as in San Francisco, as haste and despatch are the watchwords here, and the companies are ready to pay for such extra work.

San Francisco, August 24, 1867.

Important Notice to Ship-Carpenters, Caulkers and Boiler-Makers.

Brothers, beware of and do not be deceived by the above lying poster, which is gotten up by parties who a few weeks ago threatened that they would flood the market with mechanics, for the purpose of destroying trade organizations and breaking up the eight-hour system.

There is no unusual demand for the above-mentioned class of mechanics. There are, and have been for months, from fifty to one hundred and fifty men idle, who are most anxious to work.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company, California, Oregon and Mexico Steamship Company, California Steam Navigation Company, and the Ferry Companies, are at the present time building two steamboats; one is nearly done; the other will give work to about twenty-five carpenters for three and a half months.

There is but comparatively little repairing done, the P. M. S. S. Co.'s ships having been extensively repaired within the last year.

On the boats now building, $5 per day is being paid, no higher wages being demanded; the $5 50 which is offered in the card being paid for old work and on short jobs.

Capable men in Oregon and the interior towns of California had better remain there, as there are at all times from one-fourth to one-half more men in the city than can find employment.

The P. M. S. S. Co., for the last ten years, have given steady employment to not more than ten Ship-Carpenters; the other two Companies probably as many more; the Ferry Companies not pretending to give steady employment to any number of Carpenters or Caulkers.

Extra work does not amount to five days' work per man a year.

In conclusion, fellow-mechanics, we would say to you, an attempt is being made to destroy all Trade Organizations by the capitalists of this city.

Beware! Do not me deceived by the representations of parties who are ashamed or afraid to give their names.

By order of the Association.

Secretary Journeyman Shipwrights' Association.

Horace Greeley.

The Evening Gazette, one of the most spirited and interesting of the New York dailies, has been furnishing sketches of our leading literary men, and some one has been dashing off Horace Greeley with a bold hand. We quote part of it, merely premising that Chappaqua is the name of his country seat, a hundred acre farm, where he usually spends Sunday, and so much of his money also:

Mr. Greeley can count his admirers by tens of thousands; but he has few personal friends, for the reason that he does not want and does not care for them. His attachments are rather to principles than persons, and while he is unswerving in his loyalty to the former he seems entirely indifferent to the latter. Perhaps, like the character Goldsmith describes, (with a very trifling change)—

"He casts off his friends as a huntsman his pack;
For he knows when he will he can whistle them back."

The few he particularly affects he invites to Chappaqua, and likes to dine with when he has a leisure hour or two. When he has written enough to satisfy his greedy soul he relishes stealing out of the sanctum with one of his intimates, sitting down at the Astor table or at Delmonico's (corner of Broadway and Chambers,) and having a pleasant chat over a bounteous bill of fare. He has an excellent appetite usually, is fond of meats, and especially partial to tea, but he never tastes wine or liquors, spirituous or fermented, and he never touches tobacco. He does not take his meals anywhere in particular, but Bohemianizes around (he is a thorough Bohemian in the truest sense) as is most convenient and circumstances prompt.

It is a part of H. G.'s religion to believe he must write at least two columns for the Tribune every day he is in town, and he does it most faithfully. If he does not have subjects he hunts them up. He enters the office with half a dozen articles in each eye, calls for the evening papers, certain favorite exchanges that are always at issue with him, tilts up his chair, and begins to make Virginia worm fences in ink, which, with a dry hand or characteristic of the man, he declares legible manuscript. For the next four or five, or perhaps seven or eight hours, he is lost to the outer world, pays no attention to anybody who comes in, unless some one he knows intimately, but scratches away rapidly and wretchedly until he has said everything he desires. Then, after writing "must go in" upon most of his matter, he puts on his hat, expresses a daily-repeated wish that he could get somebody to do what he wants done, and disappears for the night into unknown space.

Several hundred volumes have been written upon Mr. Greeley's peculiar and slovenly dress, which like everything else connected with him, has been greatly caricatured. He is neither a Brummell nor a D'Orsay sartorially. He wears old-fashioned clothes, and puts them on carelessly. His pantaloons sometimes slip up to his boot tops and his cravat to one side, but he is too busy to notice such trifles. He is always scrupulously neat. His coat, though often limp and crumpled is comparatively clean, and his garments are rarely ragged or unsubdued. He is devoted to the bath and physical purity is as nearly as aught can be with him, a passion. His hands are white and soft as an elegant woman's, and his face always looks as fresh and smooth as a child's. How he preserves that perfectly tranquil, almost seraphic expression, with all his little controversies and hot newspaper wars, his frequent complaints and countless annoyances in his fifty-sixth year, is one of those enigmas his closest intimates cannot solve.

The editor in chief of the Tribune, though he casts out a pharos of the stock, is the controller and director of its course, and has been from the start, all pretext to the contrary notwithstanding. So much is this the case, that there have been times when every other editor of the paper has held views directly opposed to his, and yet he has expressed his opinions as independently of theirs as if they were in the bottom of the sea. People are always hearing he will ruin the Tribune and himself by his whims, but the public so believe in him, or in his unquestionable vagaries, that a harangue from him to-day carries more weight than that of any man in America.

How best to Select Representatives be Elected?—A plan entirely free from the influence of corrupt and dishonest party leaders, is something that we can hardly hope to attain. Unfortunately men are numerous, they are found in every station of society, and they seem naturally to seek the rich pastures in the field of politics. But while the evil is one of this evil is hopeless? Is no good reason why it might not be greatly mitigated? A defective political system is necessarily conducive to corruption, and the nearer we approach perfection in this respect the less opportunity to effect corrupt practices. How to improve our present system, therefore, is the question. That an improvement is possible cannot be doubted, but it is no easy matter to discover an unobjectionable plan. An organization called the Personal Representation Society, among whose members are many prominent men of this city, have presented a memorial to the Constitutional Convention recommending the adoption of a new plan for choosing legislative floors.

Their plan can be best explained by illustration: Every voter in a given district casts his ballot for a member of the legislature. When the votes are counted every man voted for who has received two thousand or more ballots is declared elected. The candidates who have received less than two thousand votes may get together and elect one or more of their number, provided they have the requisite two thousand or more votes in the aggregate. Or an unsuccessful candidate may transfer his votes to one of the successful competitors to be used as proxies. Then, when in the Legislature each member votes on behalf of his constituents by proxy.

If John Smith received twenty-five hundred votes from his constituents, his vote in the Legislature will be credited accordingly. If he received two thousand his vote counts proportionately less. This plan, it is urged, would do away with a great deal of the corrupt bargain and sale that is now practiced by the politicians who control nominating conventions. Since our present system of electing representatives is about as bad as a system possibly can be, it is safe to say that the plan proposed by the Personal Representation Society would be an improvement. Its presentation to the Convention will at least attract attention to the important subject to which it relates, and it may be that it will thus lead to the discovery of some still better system.—New York Sun.

Salaries of Clergymen.—A statician in Massachusetts has been collecting information in regard to the salaries of clergymen, which is thus summarized by the Springfield Republican;

He has reports from 1,000 ministers, of eight denominations, in eighteen States—a pretty good basis for generalization. The salaries vary from $500 to $5,000 per year. Of 450, who sent definite reports the average salary in 1860 was $772, and in 1866 $907, which is an advance of a little over 15 per cent. The average gratuities for the year amounted to but $33 each, which is much less than people generally suppose, for it is a common remark that, if ministers do not get full pay, it is made up to them in presents. This it seems is not true. The presents do not amount to enough to be taken into account at all, in most cases. The reports from the whole 1000, though not full, lead to the conclusion that the general advance on ministers' salaries during the war was over 20 per cent., while the cost of living was nearly doubled. This is equivalent to a great reduction in the salaries, which were low enough before. Mr. Walker concludes from his figures that the clergy have made larger sacrifices for the country than any other principal class of citizens, which is evident enough. More than three fourths of all the salaries are still less than $1,000, a large number ranging between $350 and $700. Since 1860 there has been a tendency to advance clergymen's salaries, especially in the cities, and the figures now would make a somewhat better show than in 1865; but they still average much below the true mark. The churches, as a general thing, are not yet dealing generously, not even with their pastors. The Indian's excuse, "poor preach poor pay," may be good in some cases, perhaps, but the general principle remains that whoever preaches the gospel should live by the gospel, and the religious society that will not properly support a clergyman has no claim upon his services.

Carrier Pigeons.—An interesting race of carrier pigeons recently took place between Brussels and Cologne, a distance of 110 miles. The "Columbia" Society at Brussels started the birds at half past 8 o'clock. The first one arrived at the rooms of the Society at Cologne in three hours; the second did not make its appearance until half-past one o'clock, or in five hours, a third came in a quarter of an hour later, the fourth a few minutes afterwards. Hamburg also has its Society or "Club" for the encouragement of the art of flying carrier pigeons. This carrier pigeon club, if we may call it by that name, has 125 pigeons, which are to be sent to Cologne to compete with the birds owned in that city by other clubs. They are to be thrown up in the Zoological Gardens in Cologne. Thence to Hamburg is about 230 miles.

Philosophers say that shutting the eyes makes them see more acute. A wag suggests that the many closed eyes that are seen on Sunday.

Chained to a Corpse.

The speech of Mr Gross, editor of the Democratic German paper, the State Zeitung, delivered in the Convention at Albany, was not only an admirable statement of the propriety of Manhood suffrage, but it was an illustration of skillful party tactics. It took exactly the position which the Democratic party as a sagacious organization should have taken at the end of the war. The logic is simple. Slavery, upon which, as a special issue, parties rested, being gone, the true policy was to abandon all the old prejudices and measures founded upon it, and to accept the situation. With the fall of slavery, and the situation of the country, it was evident that the colored man would be politically an equal citizen. Slavery being gone, there was no reason for insisting upon keeping him disfranchised and could the managers of the Democratic party have been sagacious enough to perceive it, there was a chance of restoring the old party under a new name.

As it is, the Democratic party is an organization of opposition upon a principle which wholly reverses the course of reconstruction, repudiates the theory of the war, and leaves every national question unsettled. The Democratic policy is to treat the States exactly as if nothing had happened but a riot, it has been suppressed, and that is the end of it. Nothing more puerile can be conceived than such a view of the situation. It is a statesmanship which omits all the facts. It is a folly which finds no significance in the terrible words spoken to a king: "Sire, it is a revolution." And until the mind of the country is utterly confused no such party can hope for restoration to power, except by some chance of an alliance with a vote at the South untriendly to the Government and the Union.

So long as this is the course of the Democratic party, so long as its organs sneer at loyalty and applaud treason by innuendo, so long as men who honestly gave time, money, personal service and uncompromising devotion to the country during the war, perceive in these papers, with the utterly un-American spirit which has so long ruled the society of the South, just so long they will suspect and spurn the Democratic party. Everywhere, as in the New York Convention, it appeals and panders to a hostility of race which can lead to nothing but evil when the subjects of it are equal citizens. Even Democrats of character and position serve an imaginary public which demands the sacrifice of liberty or justice, or, knowing their constituents, they stultify themselves by yielding to an ignoble prejudice. Could they once cast this kind of subserviency aside we could hope for a sudden restoration of universal prosperity.

As it is, however, the better men are in fear of the worst. The demagogues, who have no object but personal advantage at all hazards, would instantly expose to the indignation of ignorance a man who took high ground and sought to plant the party upon it. And from this springs one of the chief perils of our politics. For when the intelligent and catholic consciously defer to the dictation of the ignorant and passionate the Government becomes essentially base in itself and humiliating to every honorable citizen. Nothing is more certain than the intimate relations between morals and politics. As the sense of a moral law dies out of the mind of legislature the State approaches anarchy. Yet, if legislation is to be dictated to by the worst part of the population and by the worst feelings, how long can we hope that morality will linger in politics?

Now, there is this essential difference between the two great parties in this country, the one has the inspiration of the moral sentiment and the other has not. We do not mean that all Republicans are good men, or all Democrats bad men, but we do mean, as we have said before, that the tendency of the Republican party is to lift its members up to its best principles, while that of the Democratic party is to drag its best men down to a wretched policy. This is unavoidable. Thus the Democratic policy for a generation may be interpreted by its wisest and sincerest men as merely States rights, while the Democratic rallying cry has been, "down with the nigger!" On the other hand, the reproach incessantly urged against the Republican party by the most acrimonious Democratic journals is that it was really led by the extreme Radicals. But surely, even if this should lead to the cry of "Up with the nigger!" which is the most inviting of the two cries to an intelligent and generous man? Is society, in this country, likely to be more benefited by a feeling and a policy that degrade or that elevate any class in the community?

So long as the Democratic party cling to the old issues they are chained to a corpse, and they have no secret charm to make the dry bones live.—Harper's Weekly.

The following is an extract from a late letter from Gen. Pope to Gen. Grant:

I am confident that reconstruction will be satisfactorily accomplished in this district in spite of the influence of disloyal secessionists. I can safely say that Alabama will give ten thousand majority of white votes for reconstruction. It may also be said with reasonable certainty that Georgia will give a white majority in the same direction. Not less than three-fourths of the colored vote in each of these States will be cast for reconstruction. The same remarks are substantially true of Florida. If I have so earnestly invited your attention to the opposite result, it has only been to furnish data to justify the course I have thought it judicious to pursue. All the facts that can bear upon these questions I shall continue to report as they come to my knowledge. It is, however, my duty to state that in my judgment the condition of affairs in the Southern States, even should reconstruction be satisfactorily accomplished, will of necessity be the reproduction, in a more or less modified degree, of what now exists in them, unless some measures are adopted to free the country of disloyal and turbulent leaders of the reactionary party. Whilst these persons remain in the country to exercise the baneful influence they undoubtedly possess, there can be no peace.

A countryman stepped into a store in Bangor, Maine, to inspect a meat and vegetable chopper. Coming to the conclusion that the machine was a humbug and wouldn't cut, he placed his left finger under the knife, and gently turned a crank to test the "critter," when down came the knife and off came an inch of the finger. He finally acknowledged that the "tornal thing would cut."

"CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE."

J. H. UPTON & A. NOLTNER, Proprietors

ON SATURDAY, AUGUST 31 1867, A LARGE SIZE WEEKLY PAPER, with the above title will be issued at SALEM, OREGON.

The CHRONICLE will be devoted to Politics, News and the development of the valuable resources of the State. In politics the CHRONICLE will be an Independent Democratic paper. Its sentiments will be in accordance with National and State policy as urgently demanded at the present time by every principle of justice and well being for the weal of the American people. The necessity for a Democratic organ literally planted at the Capital, will be at once apparent to every thinking Democrat in the State. Such a one we propose to make the CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE and with the State to back it, and the Democracy to lay, with all proper direction in favor of that party, there is no valid reason why the enterprise shall not prove a complete success.

While the CHRONICLE will devote ample space to the discussion of political topics the News of the day, the Agricultural, Mining, Mechanical and Manufacturing interests of the State at large will receive due attention. A twenty eight column paper 26x38 inches in size will furnish ample space and an aim as to present in each number an amount of reading matter equal to the importance of the interests involved. We only ask at the hands of the people that legitimate patronage which shall enable us to present a sheet in every way creditable to ourselves and the State—one which none may have the least reason to be ashamed of.

All contracts for advertising and subscription existing with the late Democratic Review will be faithfully executed by the proprietor of the CHRONICLE
